Cloud-Based Learning Solution for K-12   Datasheet

Time and Budget Hinder Technology Use

The use of technology has become a standard practice in today's classrooms. While technology can certainly offer supplementary learning opportunities for students, deciding what technology to use and how to use it effectively can be time consuming for educators. In addition, educators often need help setting up and learning how to use the technology correctly. Most schools do not have the IT budget to address the setup and training involved with new technology.
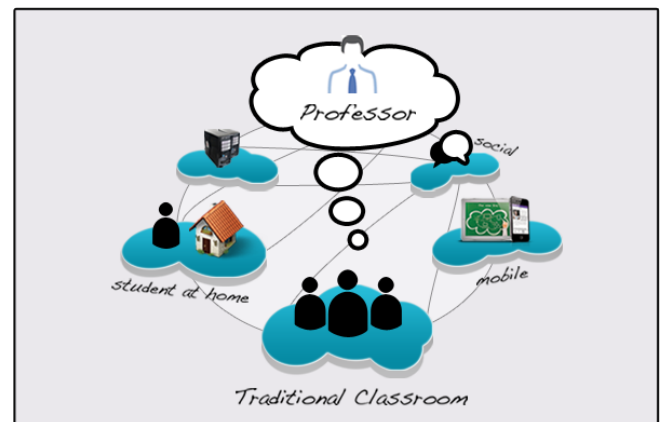

Too Many Technology Vendors

Due to these budget limitations, many educators resort to using free tools from multiple vendors to achieve their goal of incorporating technology into the classroom for supplementary learning. Educators are finding that it's difficult to coordinate lessons and track progress with a variety of vendors, and some of the free tools present a privacy issue for their students.

Our Solution

The learning platform from EDUonGo addresses these problems and includes all the tools educators need:

➢ Single sign-in, which permits access to all platform features, and can be integrated with existing student registry accounts.

➢ Full Learning Management System (LMS) features that allow educators to organize courses and easily manage student information.

➢ An online publisher that simply and securely shares information without setting up a separate blog or wiki.

➢ A private social network unique to the educator's course. Educators and students own the content and drive the data.

➢ Integrated document and word processing program, complete with real-time collaboration and editing features.

➢ Easy quiz and assignment generation with a fully integrated grading system.

➢ Unlimited online cloud storage.

➢ Secure video storage for safe compilation and viewing.

➢ Ability to record lectures using the screencasting feature and upload videos instantly (coming soon).

➢ Integrated mobile app and SMS schedules communication by time and event, eliminating single-purpose social media (coming soon).

➢ A complete presentation builder similar to PowerPoint and Prezi (coming soon).

Save resources and time for educators by giving them the complete LMS solution for all their needs. With the learning platform from EDUonGo, schools and educators can centralize data and provide security and privacy for students from a single, integrated system. Pricing available upon request.
